Getting started in the garden

Whether you are starting a new garden from a fresh plot or are developing an existing garden you have acquired, it will always involve a certain amount of care. To help you be as efficient as possible in the garden you will require the right gardening tool for the right job. Many of these core tools will be in constant use so choosing good quality, reliable equipment that is lightweight and comfortable in use is important.

Gardening is a very rewarding leisure activity – it offers you exercise, fresh air, a feeling of achievement and in return can provide you with either a lovely garden, which is an extension to the living area of your home, or garden grown vegetables to eat, or even both. So whether you want to create a relaxing outdoor space to enjoy or establish a vegetable and fruit growing area, you are going to need the right tools to help you do it.

On these pages we highlight some of the key tools you will need for a new garden. There may be others you find you need but these will give you a good mix of tools along with other equipment to get you started. Or if you have a mature garden which now needs a greater focus on maintenance you may find our suggested list of maintenance equipment useful.

An introduction to multi-change®

Gardening without the backache!

Our multi-change® range is specifically designed to be lightweight and comfortable to use.

The ‘every tool head fits every handle’ multi-change® range comprises of a selection of 15 handles of different lengths (to suit your height or the task at hand) and over 60 tool heads to cater for any type of gardening task.

When you find a handle that you love, you can choose from our comprehensive selection of tool heads and just ‘click’ them together to get any gardening job done with a straight back. When you have your handle, you can keep adding to your collection of tool heads as it only takes a quick press of a button to release one tool head and swap it for another.

Every tool head in this collection is designed to fit whichever handle you purchase so you can convert from cultivating to weeding to raking by switching tool heads and using the same handle, saving you storage space, money and most importantly a lot of backache!

WOLF-Garten provides superior-quality materials, excellent workmanship, innovative function and excellent design. All features which are bundled in the WOLF-Garten quality guarantee.

STEP 2 Choose the appropriate tool head for the task in hand

STEP 3 Simply click the tool head onto the handle

multi-change® Handles

A handle is the starting point for any multi-change® collection, whether it's for general use or for a more specific application.

All of our lightweight metal handles are made using recycled aluminium, while our wooden handles are FSC® certified.

Each handle has a fixed seat guaranteed to withstand vibration and absorb shock when in use.

Secateurs

There are so many secateurs, how do you know which one to use? Well, like loppers, that all depends on the cutting job in hand. Is it trimming new stems or tougher woodier growth?

Bypass secateurs work on a scissor like cutting action with one blade 'bypassing' the other. They are ideal for cutting growth which is younger (up to 2 years old) as they provide a very clean cut, essential for maintaining a healthy plant or shrub. Little pressure is required in pruning of this nature so the secateurs themselves are light in weight. Bypass secateurs can still be used on older cuttings but a little more effort will be required by the user.

For older thicker stems, it is best to use an anvil secateur to reduce the strain on the wrist and hand. With anvil secateurs the blade closes against a softer metal on the lower jaw, this does not produce such a clean cut as a bypass secateur, which is why it is not suited to young stems but more to older wood where the cleanliness of the cut is not so important. Always consider the density of the wood you are cutting and ensure you have the right tool for the job; you may want to upgrade the cutting tool to avoid unnecessary strain on the hand.

Loppers

A simple rule for choosing the right lopper is bypass for younger branches and anvil for hardier or dead wood. It is especially important to ensure you use the right tool for the job when cutting greener branches as the bypass lopper allows for a more accurate cut without crushing the branch.

Be sure that the lopper will be able to make one clean cut, otherwise you cause multiple wounds to the branch that can attract insects or disease more quickly. The longer the handles, the more leverage you will have when cutting, making it easier to achieve a clean cut. Telescopic loppers are available in the WOLF-Garten range to reach taller bushes.

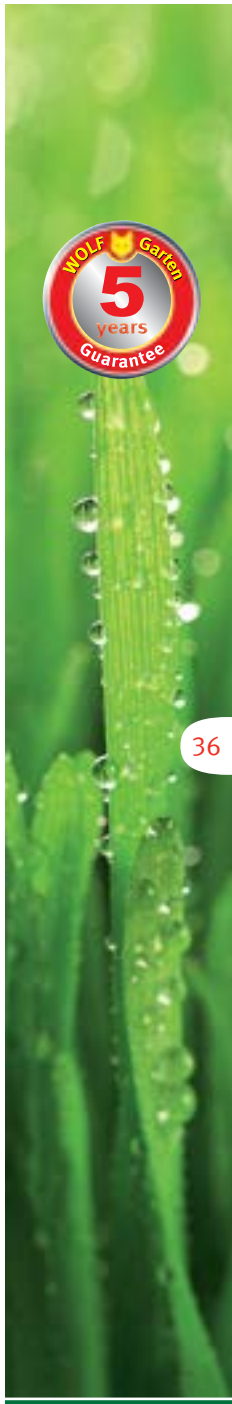
The Triplex System® - mowing faster, better, cleaner!

On expert electric mowers our patented Triplex System® guarantees the absolute filling of the collecting bag, with either dry, wet and/or high grass. During mowing, the clippings are sucked in by a heavy flow of air, this circulation is created by the rotation movement of the precision blades.



Shredders, Tillers and Scarifiers

The WOLF-Garten universal shredder converts garden waste into valuable compost or mulch. The cut and crush action of the cutting system can convert even woody waste up to 40mm diameter into quality compost, quickly and quietly. Processed material can be used as mulch on borders and beds.

The WOLF-Garten scarifiers remove organic matter from around the grass roots and tidy up any straggly lateral growth. When this layer of thatch and moss is removed, vital nutrients, oxygen and water can penetrate the soil to be absorbed by the grass roots, encouraging lawn re-growth.

Bound by tradition – the story of WOLF-Garten

It all began with minor inventions that put the WOLF company on the map. One of the first achievements was the draw hoe, a tool designed to make agricultural work easier. Gregor Wolf developed it in 1927 in the ironware factory that his father August Wolf had founded together with his sons Gregor and Otto in 1922. The idea first came to him on his way home from work, while observing local farmers working their fields.

This initial innovation was followed by many others. In 1953 the WOLF Geräte GmbH was the first company in Europe to offer lawnmowers with rotating blades. In 1958 WOLF introduced the first electrical lawnmower to the European market prior to developing the world's most silent petrol lawnmower in 1975.

Over the years, the company has developed a clear and distinctive profile in the “green area”. The WOLF Geräte GmbH of the early era became WOLF-Garten, an established company known for their key skills regarding product quality, product diversity and gardening know-how with an expertise in environmental awareness. The focused research and development work in its own research institutes was just as important for their growth as the development of new market segments.

Later global innovations helped give the brand the distinctive wolf face on a red background. WOLF-Garten is highly successful with its innovative multi-change® system that has guaranteed top quality for more than 35 years and confidently provides a warranty for all associated products. The development of innovative seed and fertiliser products, as well as the extension of its lawnmower range have demonstrated the strength and diversity of the company. WOLF-Garten was one of the first companies to offer a wide range of versatile lawn tractors to the European market. Handheld all-season tools and special devices for winter use round off the WOLF-Garten range.

Numerous quality awards and excellent results in comparative testings document why the trust of novice as well as professional gardeners throughout Europe is justified by the quality and innovative strength of WOLF-Garten.

Making garden work easier, more enjoyable and more environmentally compatible will guide our corporate future. This goal is fully supported by our employees. It is them who ensure the familiar reliability, the high quality standard of the company and the inexhaustible innovative drive of WOLF-Garten.

WOLF Garten®

To assure you of the quality of our range, all garden tools come with a 10 year guarantee for manufacturer's fault (not wear and tear). The electric range also comes with a guarantee of between 3 and 5 years depending on product.
